DEFENSE SECRETARY URGES SUPPORT FOR TITLE VI BUDGET

Secretary of Defense Casper Weinberger has joined the many supporters of Title VI International Education programs, protesting the Administration's proposal to eliminate funding for these programs in the FY 1984 budget.

In letters to Secretary of Education Terrel Bell and OMB Director David Stockman, Weinberger said, "I am seriously concerned about the zero-funding of this program, and would urge you to consider restoring these funds at least to the 1983 level. My concern is shared by other officials within the Department of Defense and members of the academic community on whom we depend for both a solid research base in area studies, as well as for production of foreign language specialists." The Secretary added that "if possible," funding for international programs, now at $26 million, should be increased in FY 1984. In additional comments to Stockman, Weinberger added that a "more consistent administration approach to this issue" was needed.

The letters were a result of a request by the DOD/University Forum Working Group on Foreign Language and Area Studies, co-chaired by Irving Shain, Chancellor of the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

STUDY ABROAD. IREX ANNOUNCES EXCHANGE PROGRAMS IN THE HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES. The International Research & Exchanges Board (IREX) conducts exchange programs for U.S. scholars with these countries: Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, German Democratic Republic, Hungary, Poland, Romania, the USSR, and Yugoslavia. Eligible requirements when appropriate include: U.S. citizenship; command of language of host country; and simultaneous application to the U.S. Department of Education for grants under Fulbright-Hays Act "Doctoral Dissertation Research Abroad Programs" or "Faculty Research Abroad Programs." Normally, candidates are faculty members or advanced graduate students who have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. (or equivalent professional degree) by the time of participation; however, scholars who are not academically employed and candidates for the M.A. degree are considered. IREX Research Exchange Programs and deadlines are: USSR Graduate Student and Young Faculty Exchange; USSR Senior Scholar Exchange; ACLS-Soviet Academy of Sciences Exchange; Exchange Programs in Eastern Europe; all 11/1/83. Developmental Fellowships; Fellowships for the Study of Soviet Nationalities; Fellowships to Develop Dual Area Competence; all 3/11/84. Language Training Programs are: Summer Exchange of (Russian) Language Teachers with the USSR, 1/15/84; and Slavonic Studies Seminar in Bulgaria, 12/1/83. Other IREX programs are: Grants for Collaborative Activities and New Exchanges; and Travel Grants for Senior Scholars. For both programs, exchanges are available for Albania and Mongolia as well as the standard IREX exchange countries. Deadlines are 10/31/83, 1/31/84, and 4/30/84.

For further information and application forms indicating which program you want to apply for, contact: International Research and Exchanges Board, 655 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10027.

NOTICE

In response to numerous inquiries, IREX announces that all exchange programs are open and functioning. Faculty and graduate students who need research access to Eastern Europe and the USSR in 1984-85 should proceed as planned with their applications. IREX does not anticipate program suspensions as a result of current international tensions.

IREX reminds all applications that the application deadline for research exchange programs is NOVEMBER 1, 1983.

For further information, contact IREX representative on campus or write to IREX (address above).
